

At the Intersection of Health Transformation, MyConsultQ Exhibits at HIMSS17

Look for MyConsultQ at Booth #3023 on the HIMSS17 exhibit floor in Orlando, Fla.

Orlando, FL 02/09/2017 – MyConsultQ is profoundly transforming how healthcare organizations best leverage talent and how healthcare consultants successfully advance their careers. HIMSS17 attendees can learn all about the game-changing on demand marketplace at the annual conference.

MyConsultQ executives and team members will be available in booth 3023 at the 2017 HIMSS Conference & Exhibition to explain how the company is bringing the gig economy to healthcare, an industry in need of creative and effective workforce solutions. The show will take place at the Orange County Convention Center in Orlando, Fla., from Feb. 19–23, 2017. More than 40,000 healthcare industry professionals are expected at the conference, where they will gain expert insights during the exchange of innovative ideas and best practices in improving health through IT.

Healthcare organization executives and independent consultants are invited to visit the MyConsultQ booth to learn more about how the innovative company is empowering:

Clinical, financial, executive, operational and technology consultants to experience unprecedented professional growth. By bringing the gig economy to healthcare, MyConsultQ enables consultants to secure consultative, temporary or long-term positions with a variety of organizations; network with other top professionals; and quickly advance their careers. As a result, independent consultants can easily find the most ideal opportunities and focus on career development, instead of merely finding a job.

Healthcare organizations to more efficiently and effectively leverage the human resources that can support the improved care, enhanced patient experiences and reduced costs associated with healthcare's "triple aim." Through the MyConsultQ on-demand marketplace, healthcare organizations can tap into the talent of a variety of professionals in a streamlined and cost effective manner – bypassing many of the hurdles associated with traditional recruiting and hiring practices.

“We consider talent acquisition one of the most important tasks for any leader in today’s healthcare organizations. Clinical care, cybersecurity, business intelligence, information management and quality needs have increased. New and innovative methods for workforce and talent acquisition require healthcare leaders to think differently or risk losing their competitive advantage. That’s where MyConsultQ can help. With our proprietary matching algorithm, we can quickly and effectively find the most qualified resources – from information technology executives to clinical professionals to business leaders and others,” said Dr. Rebecca Quammen, CEO of MyConsultQ. “At the same time, we make it possible for healthcare workers to concentrate solely on advancing their careers through the meaningful work that will enable them to build the skills and amass the experience that will help them rise to the highest levels of the industry. In essence, we are providing what’s needed to make the gig economy a winning proposition for all involved.”

“We know the HIMSS Annual Conference is where the brightest minds in health and IT meet, and our exhibit floor offers the latest technologies and education sessions to help generate new ideas during the conference. In addition, the exhibition floor is open three days, at least eight hours each day, during HIMSS17, so that exhibitors have more time to meet with attendees. We are always honored to welcome all of our exhibitors to the conference, and appreciate their contributions to our collaborative efforts to transform health and healthcare with IT,” said Karen Malone, vice president, meeting services, HIMSS North America.
